

ROUND UP YOUR SUPER

If you have money in more than one super fund, you are likely to be paying fees and charges on all of them, which could erode your savings over time.

Rounding up all your super into your Australian Food Super account may save you money.

Consolidate your superannuation

If you've changed jobs over the years, you probably have several different superannuation accounts set up for you by your previous employers. Trouble is that if your money is scattered between several accounts, you're eroding your savings because you're paying administration fees on each and every account. And those fees can really add up.

If you don't want to waste your money, it pays to consolidate your super into a single account.

By moving all of your super into Food Super, you'll save money on fees and you'll be able to keep track of your super more easily. Not only that, but Food Super has no entry fees, so consolidating your super will cost you nothing. So why not save your super by consolidating today?

You can rollover online in MemberAccess, our online secure site, where you can manage your own super account. Simply log in and click on the Consolidate super tab. It's really simple to use. If you haven't already registered for MemberAccess, click here to get started.

Before rolling over your super accounts you should consider any insurance cover you currently have in place as it may be cancelled. You may be able to transfer your cover. Our team can provide more information.
