

THE FUTURE OF OUR FUND STARTS NOW.

Hi Australian Food Super member,

I'm Murray Rutherford, CEO and CIO of Australian Food Super, formerly AMIST Super. By now, you will have received a notification in the mail about our change of name from AMIST Super to Australian Food Super.

The reasons behind this change are simple.

For over 35 years, AMIST Super has been helping people in the meat industry secure their future. We know our members, we understand them and we've learned a lot about the challenges they face.

We believe that it's time to help people working in other food industries—in the same way we have done for the meat industry.

That's why we've changed our name to Australian Food Super.

And while we will continue to offer our signature strength and security for all our members, ultimately, we will strive to be better.

To offer better service. To offer competitive products. To offer solid investment returns. To protect you today and invest for your future.

The meat industry is our heritage and will always be integral to everything we do. And as an existing member, you are already part of this exciting transition. For you, only our brand is changing.

Australian Food Super will continue to support its members from the day they join, through their entire work life and into retirement. It's our ongoing commitment.

So welcome to Australian Food Super.

Murray Rutherford
